ONE TRACK MIND @ La Sotterenea, August 24 2024

The HC gig at Sott on Aug 24 was great. Props to Destiny/Be About It and all the bands for running a super smooth show — five bands and everything was wrapped before 11 so everyone could see all the bands AND catch the métro or do whatever they wanted to do for the rest of the night. To quote Karl from WILL TO SPEAK "Great gig at Sott. I had time to load out, drop the shit back to our jamspace in Hochelaga, come back to Casa to see pals/have nachos and a pint and still be in bed at a reasonable time." I'm more of a small-h guy myself, but PUNKS TAKE NOTE this is one thing the capital-H scene does way better.

WILL TO SPEAK and ONE TRACK MIND were both in peak form this night and the crowd went off. They both played the same cover of "Invasion" by RIGHTEOUS JAMS which apparently wasn't planned, it was fun to watch everyone lose it and pile on the mic. I'm a fan of both of these bands' positive, youth-crew style and I hope they're indicative of the sonic direction that HC in Montreal is leaning.

LICE (Ontario) headlined, they are thrashy and heavy without being stupid, very fun to watch, really cool vocals, I'm into this band. RUFF PUFF were new to me and not exactly my vibe but they did cover "The Hammer" by THINK I CARE which got me (and the crowd) pretty pumped. I unfortunately missed SIGIL GROVE, which sucks because I have also never seen them — maybe next time.

PROS: Started on time, over by 11! Really fun vibe. Not all dudes on stage.
CONS: There was some fucking annoying moshing at this show. Crowd killers should get a new hobby.

"A good mosh pit is when I get hurt in a way that I like. A bad mosh pit is when I get hurt in a way I don't like. Reader, the GLOWING ORB comeback pylon pit [at Van Horne, Aug 3 2024] was so bad. Too many people standing with phones, too many camera guys, many random men basically punching you and overcompensating with the props. The band ruled as usual and the pyrotechnics were very fun. Everyone else: do better.

("footnote: i will concede the unpleasant vibes did improve towards the end as more girls gained the courage to join in")
